

DOMESTIC PROGRAMS: Revitalizing U.S. Communities

Winrock preserves livelihoods and builds resilience around the world. In the U.S., we use community development and entrepreneurial ecosystems to empower the disadvantaged, increase economic opportunity and sustain natural resources. Small-town America faces urgent challenges, and Winrock's Domestic Programs are helping to meet and transcend them.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

- Analyzing and supporting community strengths and needs
- Conducting economic assessments and feasibility studies
- Training and empowering local leaders

ENTREPRENEURIAL ECOSYSTEMS

- Providing business training to individuals and cohorts
- Assisting with loan applications and seed funds
- Assessing, mentoring and leading

Our community development programs help local leaders determine what they need to thrive — from sidewalks to broadband — and then help make it happen. We do this by offering technical assistance and capacity building, and by training leaders to access funding. We conduct feasibility studies and implement placemaking projects. We tailor our programs to meet the unique needs of each community.

We build entrepreneurial ecosystems by providing connections and coaching to a diverse universe of small and medium-sized enterprises, from high-tech startups to Main Street businesses. We connect entrepreneurs with the ideas, people and resources they need to create profitable ventures. We offer startup accelerators, bootcamps, job portals — and most of all, a continuum of support.

ADVANCING MATERNAL HEALTHCARE AND TECH INNOVATION

Winrock is at the forefront of a new movement to improve maternal health outcomes in Arkansas, particularly in rural communities where maternal mortality rates remain alarmingly high. Through our MaternaTech initiative, we are collaborating with established health care providers and committed tech entrepreneurs to strengthen systems that deliver care, reduce barriers to access and engage local communities in co-creating solutions to the maternal healthcare crisis that reflect their values and needs.
