ILO Convention and Recommendation on the Worst Forms of Child Labor
Rapid Reference Card™ • Nepal

DEFINITION OF TERMS

Child applies to all persons:
- Under the age of 18, in international law
- Under the age of 16, in Nepali law

Worst Forms of Child Labour (WFCL) includes:
- All forms of slavery or similar practices, such as child trafficking, debt bondage, servitude, and compulsory labour, including compulsory recruitment of children for use in armed conflict.
- Using, procuring or offering a child for prostitution, or to produce pornography or similar performances.
- Using, procuring or offering a child for illicit activities, such as production or trafficking of drugs.
- Work likely to harm health, safety or morals.

Engaging children in any of the first three types of work listed above should be deemed as a criminal offense.

DETERMINATION OF WFCL

- The types of work defined as WFCL shall be determined by national laws or competent authority, taking into consideration relevant international standards.
- WFCL determination shall be periodically examined and revised as necessary.

Nepali law concerning bonded labour:
- Defined as labour or service rendered for a creditor, without wages or for nominal wages.
- All bonded labour is prohibited.

Nepali law concerning children under the age of 16:
- On slavery
- No child may work against his or her will.
- On prostitution and pornography
- No immoral professions.
- No photographs taken for the purpose of engaging a child in an immoral profession.
- On child labour for illicit activities
- No engagement in the sale, distribution, or smuggling of intoxicating substances or drugs.
- On harm to a child’s health, safety, or morals
- No labour that is more than what the child’s physical capacity can bear.
- No work that may hurt the child’s religious or cultural traditions.
- No begging, except while observing religious or cultural traditions.

HAZARDOUS WORK

In determining WFCL, consideration should be given to work:
- Which exposes children to abuse.
- In dangerous environments.
- Involving dangerous tools or heavy loads.
- Under difficult conditions.

For these hazardous types, national laws may authorize work from the age of 16 if health, safety, and morals are protected, and specific instruction or training is provided.

Nepali law: No child under the age of 16 may be engaged in:
- Business related to tourism.
- Service-oriented business.
- Public transport.
- Construction.
- Production of certain products.

IMPLEMENTATION

Nepal shall take measures to (a) prevent WFCL, (b) remove children from WFCL and provide for their rehabilitation and social integration, (c) ensure free education and, when possible, vocational training for children removed from WFCL, (d) identify and reach out to special risk children, and (e) consider the special situation of girls.

Nepal should maintain information on the nature and extent of child labour, including disaggregated data and data about violations of national provisions against WFCL.

Nepal should ensure that the competent authorities which have responsibilities for implementing such national provisions cooperate with each other.

National laws or the competent authority should determine the persons to be held responsible in case of noncompliance with national provisions against WFCL.

Nepal should prosecute and register those involved in child trafficking, or in the use, procuring, or offering of children for illicit activities, prostitution, or pornography.

IMPLEMENTATION (continued)

Measures that Nepal may take to eliminate child labour include:

- Informing, sensitizing and mobilizing the public, political leaders, and the judiciary.
- Involving and training employers’ and workers’ organizations and civic organizations, government officials, and schoolteachers.
- Special supervision of enterprises that have used WFCL, and consideration of revoking of permits to operate in cases of persistent violation.
- Prosecuting nationals who commit offences under national provisions against WFCL, even when offences are committed in another country.
- Simplifying legal/administrative procedures.
- Monitoring and giving publicity to best practices on the elimination of child labour.
